Sunday, 08 April 2007

Was released Music Organizer, v.4.67

Main advantage of new version is that users for installing it do not need install any additional components - now it is not needed. All needed components are already included in installation pack and will be installed automatically. User must need to run installation pack - all installation actions will be executed automatically, on any computer with any Windows operating system - from early Windows 95 to modern Windows 2003, XP and Vista.

Changes related to previous versions:

- Installation process was strongly simplified: all needed system components now are installed automatically.
- Extended music files processing templates.
- Improved media files playback process.
- To log context menu appended navigational options: to first, previous, next and last page.
- Appended possibility to customize main window background color.
- Registration process made easier - it is not needed to restart application now to apply registration information.
- Changed application visual appearance (it made more ergonomic and user-friendly).
- Appended possibility to directly select, what Music Organizer should do with processed files: copy them to database folder, or move.
- All Music Organizer settings were moved from main application window to the separate settings window.
